

GEORGIA

In the midst of historical levels of inflation (9.1% over the last year), Democrats are considering increasing taxes to pass-through business owners. Despite promises that these taxes are targeted towards the wealthy, these taxes put 71% of small businesses (274,232 small businesses) in the state in danger of a tax hike simply because they chose to organize as a pass-through entity.

While Democrats claim that their tax hikes are aimed at the wealthy shareholders, these business owners employ 66% of the state's small business workforce, which would put an estimated 2,272,138 workers in danger.

U . S . N a t i o n a l A v e r a g e

- An estimated 8,365,284 small businesses (64% of small businesses nationwide) are in danger of a tax hike.
- These small businesses account for 76,251,996 jobs (62% of the small business workforce).

WITH HISTORICALLY-HIGH LEVELS OF INFLATION,
NOW IS NOT THE TIME TO RAISE TAXES ON ALREADY-VULNERABLE SMALL BUSINESSES